

Sponsorship Criteria

Cameron was a very talented sports person and accomplished athlete. His sporting passions involved rugby, swimming, surf life saving, triathlons and multisport. His dedication and determination saw him represent various sports at high levels, including New Zealand representation.

Complimented by his career of being a teacher, Cameron was passionate about getting children involved in sports and was actively involved in coaching and sport promotion.

Sadly, Cameron's life was taken in June 2009, but his dreams continue on. The Cameron Clow Trust has been established to support young sports people in their sporting endeavours, by way of financial assistance.

Applications for funding may be made to the trust according to the follow criteria:
